

You have been assigned a task to create a login form for the OnlineJobs website that accepts the user name and password from the user to search a suitable job. If the user enters incorrect password consecutively three times, the website should display a message "Account is temporarily disabled". Otherwise, the user is redirected to another Web page.